Dear Families,

Last Friday was my first Deck the Halls and then of course the Christmas Parade! I got home exhausted but very happy! It just reminded me of what a joyful place St. Anne's is! I found out I didn't have enough pom poms for my craft but the kids didn't care because they colored and got to play tag in the gym. A fifth grader said to me that they were so sad that this was their last Deck the Halls and I could see why! What a fun day! The parents were putting things up as fast as the kids could make them. The result in the hallway was magical. It reminded me of the movie Elf when he spent all night making the toy store ready for Santa and it was magical!

The Christmas parade wasn't too cold which was good and the kids and parents were full of enthusiasm! The Greenig's drove the wagon and we had a trio holding the St. Anne's banner. I think we ended up with over 50 kids and parents to walk and ride in the parade. What fun was that? The last parade that I was in was when I was 10 and riding a snowmobile on a trailer advertising my uncle's hardware store in Luck Wisconsin!

I can't say enough for St. Anne's! What a joyful place full of the love of Christ and people who carry that with them every day!!

God Bless all of you!

Diane Lee

Living the Word through the Advent Season:

Make (or buy) cookie dough, and use a cookie cutter with the letters "Y" "E" and "S". Decorate cutouts with colored sugar and talk about ideas and actions that we should say "yes" to: helping others, listening to kindness, playing fair, doing small extra favors for people who need help. Talk about being a little more "yes" and much less "no" or "maybe" this Advent. What good habit could we say "yes" to, this advent? Our yes is no different than Mary's if we have faith when we say it.

2016 Year-End Contributions / Donations

For those making year-end contributions and/or donations to the parish and/or school, please know there are some simple guidelines to consider. For any contributions mailed, the postmark must be no later than December 31st to be included for 2016. For any contributions not mailed, they must be received before January 1st. For the Sunday Mass collection of December 31st / January 1st, the 5:15pm collection will be marked for 2016, whereas the 8:00am & 10:30am collections will be marked for 2017.

For any questions, please contact the parish office.
